Job description, responsibilities and duties

AWS Cloud Engineer \(m/f/d\) CRM

WHAT WE OFFER

Our team works globally and builds sustainable as well as efficient applications for Covestro’s business entities. In close collaboration with our business we are working on implementation of new processes and the optimization of existing ones. We take ownership of all business applications and ensuring daily operations in the area of Customer Interaction Management.

Why should you work with us and what are your tasks?

Covestro focuses fully on circular economy. Digitization is a key enabler for us to fulfill our strategy.

We mean it – seriously!

Two of the main topics on our digital journey at Application Services are modernization and optimization of our marketing & sales application landscape. As one goal we are about to move all applications into AWS cloud and utilize its possibilities to realize new and improve existing solutions for our Marketing & Sales community. In your daily work, you together with a motivated team will hands-on work on these topics, while staying closely connected to our overall goal.

As team-member of our Customer Interaction Management team you will:

- Implement hands-on Marketing & Sales solutions based on standard AWS cloud technologies within a product team
- Interact with different teams in IT to find and establish the right solution architecture, define interfaces and ensure security of our solutions
- Understand & participate in design of business processes and find the right way forward to reflect them in technical implementations
- Collaborate with business stakeholders for requirements engineering to find the best solution for their business

Required education level

University degree in computer science or comparable education

Required skills & experience

WHAT YOU OFFER

- You have gained several years of professional experience in the area of cloud-based application development
- You have proven expertise in developing and operating applications in a professional context on the AWS cloud. You are comfortable with using AWS cloud services and understand the benefits of serverless architectures. Ideally you can underline your experience with AWS certifications
- Ideally you have made experiences with pricing management processes
- Agile development methodology (SCRUM, Kanban), is a mindset you share and support
- You are engaged to constantly search for and learn about new technologies to test, establish and bring them to beneficial usage at Covestro
- Required is fluent English, both written and spoken
